Doug Spurns Fortune, Hunts Job

As New York Saw Douglas Corrigan

Corrigan's Chest Hurt By Great Gotham Crowd

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Douglas Corrigan, a weary and battered hero, spurned a dozen fortunes today and decided to remain just another young man in search of a flying job.

Offers were accumulating by the hour for him to exhibit himself on a stage or talk over the radio at prices of $12,000 to $20,000; to become a movie actor for even larger sums; to write stories of his life and endorse products he doesn't use.

But Corrigan shook his head, demanded with a trace of Irish anger to know who used his picture in a beer advertisement without permission, and said he'd just wait until somebody offered him a steady job. It will have to be a flying job, he said, and if it wasn't forthcoming soon (he had only $15 when he landed his $900 airplane in

FLOODED CREEK DROWNS FAMILY OF SIX PERSONS

GATLINBURG, Tenn., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Deaths from a flooded mountain creek were believed to total six today. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Gillon have been recovered and Mrs. Alfred Ball and her three children were missing.

All were occupants of a Sevier county farm house leveled by Roaring Fork creek when it turned torrent with the waters of a cloudburst early yesterday. Damage to bridges and tourists cabins were reported from the Great Smoky mountain scenic area. Nearly four inches of rain fell in less than two hours in the mountains.

ELECTION BOARD PREDICTS 5,500 POSSIBLE VOTE

Presiding Judges Meet to Receive Instructions for Handling Returns

TWO PICKAWAY CONTESTS

Six Bond Issues to be Decided; Judge's Name
To Be Written in

Final preparations for next Tuesday's primary, rather dull in interest so far as county candidates are concerned, were being completed Saturday by the board of elections.

Presiding judges of the county's 40 precincts were given instructions to report at the board of elections office between 3 and 5 p. m. Saturday to obtain supplies. As in previous state elections the workers were instructed to count state tickets first and telephone results to the board as quickly as possible. The county board will make reports to the state on every ten precincts. An unofficial report will be prepared as quickly as possible. Polls will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

Reports on the disabled and absent voters, ballots indicate the vote on Tuesday may be fairly heavy. Friday was the last day for filing these ballots. The total was 129, 69 by absent voters, 60 by disabled. Two years ago the total was 108.

FORMER MAYOR HENRY WORLEY HEART VICTIM

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—(UP)—The death of Henry J. Worley, 61, former mayor of Columbus and Democratic candidate for congress, today was attributed to a heart attack.

Worley died at the wheel of his automobile here last night shortly after he had finished making a radio address in behalf of his candidacy. His campaign manager, John Casserly, was with him at the time of his death.

Worley, a native of England, was brought to the United States when he was four years old. He came to Columbus in 1904.

Worley served as a city councilman from 1921 through 1931 and in the latter year was elected mayor.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sadie E. Worley; a son, Henry Worley, Jr., secretary-manager of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce; and two daughters, Mrs. Alice Eckhart and Miss Mildred L. Worley of Columbus.

To Review Irish
His program for today included a trip to Peekskill, N. Y., to review a "Fighting Irish" regiment at the national guard encampment, and a dinner of the Dublin Society of New York at the Hotel Astor tonight.

His most cheering news today was contained in a telegram from Dennis Mulligan, head of the Bureau of Air commerce, at Washington, announcing that his five-day suspension for flying across the ocean without permission had expired and he could fly again anytime he wanted.

The injury was painful but evidently slight, and after his chest had been strapped, he carried on (Continued on Page Eight)

COLUMBUS AUTOIST GIVES
BOND FOR RECKLESSNESS

Joseph Applegate, 54, of 1003 Madison avenue, Columbus, posted a $20 bond in police court Friday night to report for a hearing Aug. 16 on a charge of reckless driving.

Applegate is accused of speeding on N. Court street. He was arrested at 8:15 p. m. Friday.

F. D., 3RD, DESIGNATED
LIFE MEMBER OF CLUB
DESPITE EARLY AGE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, 3rd, leaves Philadelphia lying in hospital with his parents and a gold life membership card in the Eighth Ward Democratic club today.

The President's grandson and namesake will go to "Owl's Nest," the Wilmington, Del., home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Du Pont, his maternal grandparents, with his mother, the former Ethel DuPont, and his father, Franklin, Jr.

Because the youngest Roosevelt has been a "resident" of the Eighth Ward since his birth, July 19, he was voted a life membership by the club last night. His father accepted for him.

JACKSON MAN ARRESTED ON BAD CHECK COMPLAINT

Clarence Eismaugle was to be returned to Circleville from Jackson, Saturday, to answer a bad check charge filed in Mayor W. B. Cady's court by S. S. Stubs, manager of an uptown store.

The charge alleges that Eismaugle gave a $20 check to the store on Aug. 4. The check was on the Third National bank of Jackson. Police said there was no Third National bank in Jackson. The check was made out to Eismaugle, signed by him and endorsed by him.

of gratitude to the Democratic party in Ohio if I did not say that it faces a crisis in its own affairs and an almost unprecedented challenge to its fidelity to clean government. Ohio as a state is 135 years old. In all its history the honesty of the governor's office has been questioned only twice. In the first instance there was an impressive response from the whole electorate in the November election after the Republicans had neglected their duty at the primaries. In the present case it is either a matter of the Democracy of the state cleaning house now, or leaving to the voters next Fall a responsibility which the Democracy shirked.

The reflection that would be on our party is easily comprehended. It is not necessary to enumerate the charges that have been made against the present

While Tokyo strove for an amicable settlement of the Siberian border dispute today, Russian tanks made mass attacks on two points in the Vladivostok region. The Japanese replied with artillery fire.

Russia remained firm in her demand that Japan concede the Soviet right to the disputed territory and withdraw her troops, leaving Soviet troops in possession before negotiations can be started. Tokyo nevertheless minimized the extent of the Soviet demands and seemed hopeful of a compromise.

In the Japanese-Chinese war, Chinese army heads indicated their belief that Hankow is doomed to fall. The abandoned temporary capital was bombed by 54 Japanese planes today, with a considerable number of fatalities.

TWO MORE MAY BE KILLED BY QUEER DISEASE

OWOSSO, Mich., Aug. 6.—(UP)—The state health department established temporary headquarters here today after two more persons became ill with a strange disease which already has caused the death of six children this week.

Gilbert Vogelwohl, 18, of Owosso entered Owosso hospital with symptoms of the deadly infection and a woman patient was also under observation.

Health Commissioner Don W. Gudakunst said it is possible other persons may have had slight attacks. He warned residents to eat only cooked fruits, vegetables and particularly meats until more can be learned about the medical mystery.

Four children of the Llewellyn Bennett family of Benningtown township and Helen Aldrich and Gerald Laza have died this far. Mrs. Bennett and another child are still in the hospital.

Toxicologists believe the disease is a severe type of dysentery caused by bacterial infection.

Tests made thus far have been negative, according to Dr. C. C. Young, head of the state health department laboratory in Lansing. He said it is possible a cause for the disease may never be discovered.

Two Men Killed In Gambling War

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(UP)—Two men were shot and killed today by a gunman who stood alongside their automobile in broad daylight, emptied his gun, then fled.

The victims were identified by police as Bruno Switaz, 35, and Leo Muszinski, 32. Muszinski was believed to have been a former state policeman.

They had been seated in their automobile, parked at the curb in front of the home of Alderman Joseph Rostenkow, when the killer drove up in another machine.

A woman who witnessed the slayings told police the gunman was accompanied by "one or two" other men. She said he stepped out of his automobile, and raked the victims' automobile with bullets.

"They came so fast," she said, "they sounded like one continuous shot."

The killing followed persistent rumors in underworld circles that gamblers had ordered the "execution" of holdup men who had been raiding horse race "bookies."

One such rumor had said that these "executions" accounted for several recent unsolved homicides and that "two more are marked for death."

Police Sgt. Cornelius Collins confirmed that that was "one angle we are looking into."

Police said that holdups of "bookies" never reach the police blotter. These matters reputedly are handled by the underworld in its own tribunals.

Today's deaths were the second and third in greater Chicago during 24 hours. The body of Benny Bartellini, 28, of Chicago Heights, was found in a ditch with 10 bullet wounds a half mile East of the Lincoln Fields race track yesterday.

Police were unable to say immediately if they suspected any connection.

MRS. DWYER TESTIFIES

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Paul (Buddy) Dwyer's mother testified as a state witness today at the murder trial of Farmer Deputy Sheriff Francis M. The almost exclusive activity in its behalf is given by coerced office holders, beneficiaries of state contracts—highway, liquor and what not—and the enforced support of those enjoying state franchises. In short, an army under whip and lash. BITTER FIGHT AT END

Half Million Votes to be Cast; Senator Campaigns
On His Record

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 6.—(UP)—Kentucky Democrats select their nominee for the United States senate in its primary voting today and provide a clear-cut test of the popularity of President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Opposing Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley for re-nomination was Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler. The issue had been unmistakably drawn in a campaign exceptionally bitter in this state where political campaigns always are bitter—President Roosevelt had made three campaign speeches for Barkley and the last word of the Barkley forces to the voters was a plea not to humiliate Mr. Roosevelt by defeating the man who became the Democratic leader of the senate through his intervention.

Various straw votes and other samplings of public opinion indicated a Barkley victory and Kentucky political observers agreed with them, though Chandler, who undertook to "shake hands with every voter in Kentucky," was believed to have made strong strides in the last weeks of his strenuous campaign.

Investigators on Hand

Four investigators of the senate campaign expenditures committee were in the state watching the balloting. They previously had reported that campaign methods on both sides were such as "to imperil the right of the people to a free and unpolluted ballot." The Barkley forces had been accused of coercing WPA workers and federal employees in favor of their candidate; the Chandler forces had been accused of identical tactics against state employees.

Sen. Barkley is 60, rugged, humorless, a veteran politician; Gov. Chandler is 40, of a gay, impressive disposition who has been in politics only 10 years.

The Democratic nomination in Kentucky is tantamount to election.

An estimated 500,000 votes were expected to be cast. The polls opened at 6 a. m. Circleville time and close at 5 p. m. The outcome may be apparent late tonight. But if tabulators have not completed their count by midnight, they must halt until Monday.

Showers, predicted generally throughout the state, may retard voting in rural areas.

FAST PAYS FINE OF $100, COSTS IN LIQUOR CASE

Fine of $100 and costs was imposed on Walter Fast, 34, of Derby, when he admitted a charge of possession of untaxed liquor before Judge Meeker Terwilliger, Saturday. Fast paid his fine.

He was arrested recently in a raid conducted on his home by the sheriff's department and Constable John Stage, Jr. A pint of untaxed liquor was confiscated, officers said.

Fast is at liberty under bonds of $200 each on indictments charging he made menacing threats and resisted the constable on April 15.

Finley Barker, Madison county, admitted a charge of assault and battery in Common Pleas court Friday and paid a fine of $50 and costs.

YANKEES TAKE ADVANTAGE OF FELLER'S WILDNESS TO STRETCH LEAD

NEW YORK GAINS FOUR BINGLES, SIX BIG RUNS

Manager Joe Cronin Clubs Homer With Paths Full To Aid Red Sox

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6—(UP)—If the Yankees don't beat you one way, they will another. The world champions have many formulas for winning ball games. Sometimes they win them on power. Other times it's on pitching. Yesterday they just sat tight and let the Cleveland Indians toss a vital game right into their laps. The Yanks made four hits and six runs. The Indians made five hits and one run. And today the Ruppert Rifles were winging away three and one-half games ahead of the Tribe and looking more like triple champions every day. The wildness of Bullet Bob Feller was the biggest contribution to the Yankee victory. He walked 11 batters in seven innings. It didn't matter that he allowed only three hits. Bump Hadley pitched steadily all the way to notch his fifth victory. A ladies day crowd of 62,753 attended.

No Hits Wasted Here's how the Yanks made their runs:

No. 1—a walk, a passed ball and Joe Glenn's double. No. 2—a hit batsman, a walk, a double steal, and DiMaggio's deep fly. Nos. 3 and 4—a single, followed by three straight walks and Gehrig's foul out. Nos. 5 and 6—a walk and Joe Gordon's 15th homer.

That's run production without wasted effort—a Yankee copy-right.

Today the Yanks hoped to trump the Tribe again with Lefty Gomez opposing fiery Johnny Allen, Indians' ace. Gomez will be striving to reach the 500 mark, having a record of nine wins and 10 losses.

A great ninth inning rally topped by Manager Joe Cronin's homer with the bases loaded enabled the Boston Red Sox to triumph over Detroit, 9-8, in 10 innings. Going into the ninth the Red Sox trailed, 8-3. A five-run blast tied the score and then doubled by Cramer and Vosmik accounted for the winning rally in the tenth. Lefty Grove, making his first start since his arm went "dead," was removed after the Tigers had scored four runs in the seventh. Rookie Jim Bagby received credit for the victory.

In the other American league game Rookie Fred Johnson pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 9-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Seeds' Blow Wins

The up-and-down New York Giants trimmed Pittsburgh's National league lead to four and one-half games by downing the Pirates, 5-3. Bob Seeds' homer with a mate on base in the seventh and the score tied, 3-3, decided the issue. Walter Brown starred in a relief role after coming to Cliff Melton's rescue with the count tied.

Cincinnati moved into a third place tie with the idle Chicago Cubs by defeating Brooklyn, 4-1. Paul Derringer scattered 11 hits to score his 14th victory, more than any other National league pitcher. Tot Pressnell tied in the late innings and the Reds put over the winning tallies in the eighth and ninth.

Lon Warneke pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-0 shutout victory over the Phillies, allowing only six hits. Two errors by Shortstop George Scharen aid the Cards in scoring their first two runs.

FIGHT WITH JOE LOUIS SOUGHT BY SLAPSIE MAXIE

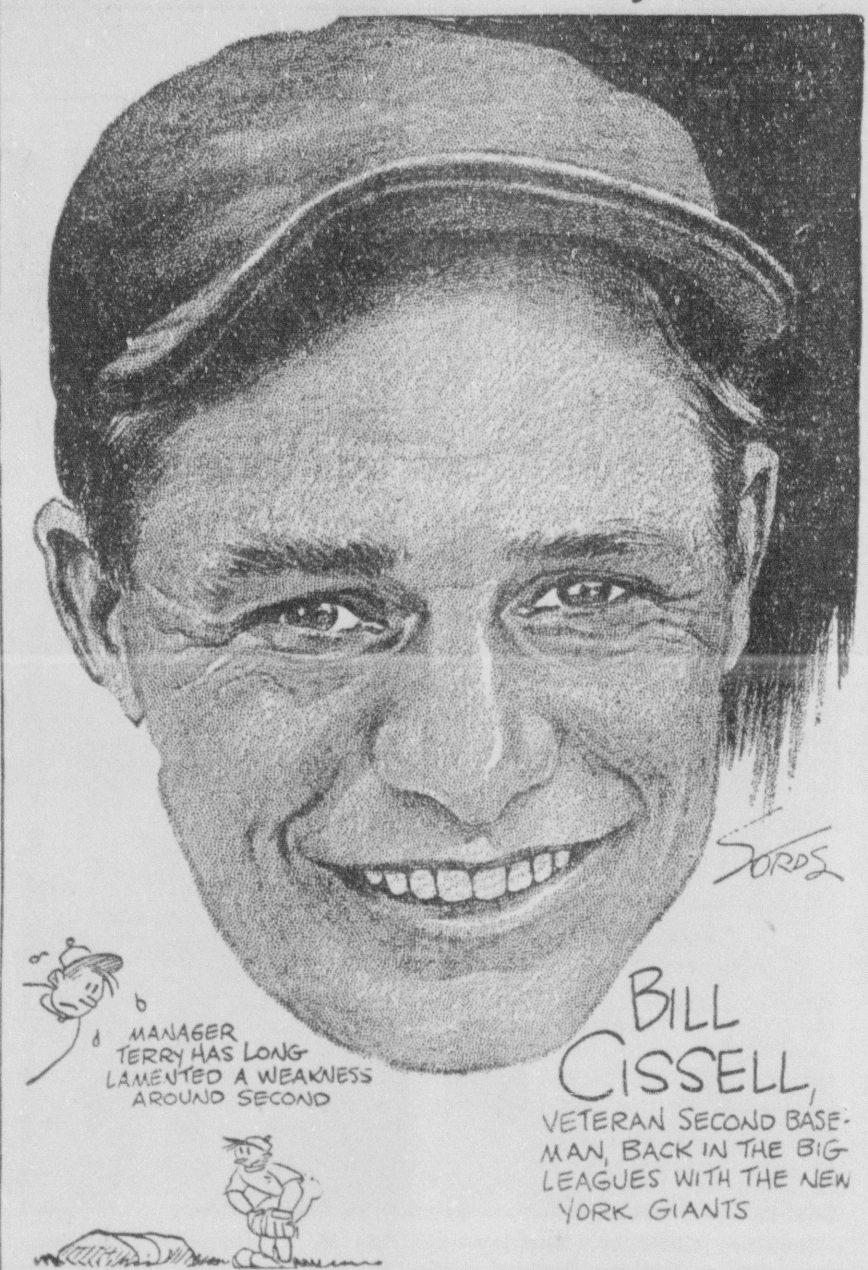

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6—(UP)—Maxie Rosenbloom said today he would retire if he could not get a fight with Joe Louis. Rosenbloom and Bob Pastor of New York fought a 10-round draw last night.

Although backed by the film colony Rosenbloom went into the ring the underdog. He outsmarted Pastor, using the tactics that have proven stumbling blocks to many other fighters.

Pastor was the aggressor in the early going and won three of the first four rounds, the second being even. But Maxie, 14 years older than his 23-year-old opponent, assumed the offensive and won the next three, even though he appeared weary at one time after sparring and clinching at a moderately fast pace. Maxie tied up his opponent, working in with his elbows.

As Pastor weakened, Rosenbloom at times scuffed him around almost at will. In the eighth round Pastor found new strength

Chicago Broker Wins Estate in Golf Game

CHICAGO, Aug. 6—(UP)—That old Virginia plantation for which J. Smith Ferebee, a broker, played 144 holes of golf in 13 hours and 32 minutes was owned by neither him nor the man who bet he couldn't do it, it was revealed today.

It was owned by Mrs. Ferebee and Mrs. Fred Tuerk, wife of Ferebee's business colleague who entered the all or nothing bet after a disagreement over managerial methods. And at least one of the wives—Mrs. Ferebee—knew nothing of the wager which was settled amid blistered feet, thunder showers, and enthusiastic galleries on a local golf course yesterday.

But there will be no difficulty in Ferebee's collecting his winning, and more than there would have been if Tuerk had won. Winner and loser explained that they had just the property in their wives names for convenience. Ferebee was a little worried though to his wife's reaction when she learns that he spent a day playing golf and risking his half share in the plantation which has been in his family for some 300 years.

Tuerk was a good loser. "I guess Smith ought to be the one to have it anyway," he said. "That place has been in his family for a long time. Its value may be a little bit over-estimated. We paid $30,000 for it in 1933 but I guess he feels its worth more now."

They bought it from Ferebee's uncle. It is in Princess Anne county Virginia.

Feet, Back Hurt

Ferebee won with only minutes to spare as the last bit of daylight was fading. He limped in, his feet blistered, his back aching from lumbago, but with his eighth round a stroke better than his first.

Tuerk took up Ferebee's boast that he could do 144 holes in one day, but added a stickler—each round had to be 95 or under. Still Ferebee, a 10 handicap player, won in a walk with rounds of 90, 82, 82, 82, 87, 87, 88, and 89, a total of 687.

"Sure, I hurt all over" Ferebee grinned at the finish. "But it was easy. I could have gone further if it hadn't rained me out for 97 minutes playing time, but I guess gettin' the plantation was enough."

Ferebee's eight rounds were played under almost every handicap a golfer can face. He started at 4:05 a. m. in virtual darkness. There was heavy rain, high wind and later, drying greens that proved fast on one side and slow on the other, with no way to tell which was which. On the slow greens he had to use a five iron and in watersoaked sandtraps he had to use a putter.

DAIRYMEN WIN 6-4 TO RETAIN LEAD IN LEAGUE

Cain's Food Market Team Loses Early Lead in Fast Ball Game

Blue Ribbon Dairy athletes remained undefeated in the second half of the softball league race, Friday evening, by turning back the speedy Cain food market team of South Bloomfield in a 6-4 contest. The game was nip and tuck the whole way through, the Cains having a 4-1 lead in the fourth frame.

Cains went ahead 3-0 in the opening frame when Chuck Wilson uncorked a four-bagger over Eddie Watson's head with two mates on the bricks. Another Cain run was scored in the third when Ansel Roof smacked another liner to the same part of the field to make the circuit.

The first dairy run came in the third inning when Watson hit a double, moved up on Trimmer's out and scored on Stevens' single. Another was chalked up in the fourth when Merle Davis clubbed a liner to left field for four bases.

The dairy tied it up in the fifth on Rowe's error of Holland's grounder, Watson's single, a walk to Trimmer and Stevens' double which chased two across.

Holland's Hit Wins

The winning runs crossed in the sixth on singles by Thompson and Fowler and a double by Holland into right field.

Raymond Smith, dairy pitcher, fanned the side in the seventh inning, Roby getting a single between strikeouts of Thomas and P. Nance.

Smith gave up nine hits and Thomas was touched for 13.

BAMBINO GIVES PINT OF BLOOD TO ADOPTED GIRL

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(UP)—Babe Ruth was back in the Brooklyn coaching box today after a day at the hospital where he donated a pint of his blood to his adopted-daughter, Julia.

The transfusion was performed in Manhattan eye, ear, nose and throat hospital. A nurse stood beside the operating table swabbing the sweat from the face of the retired home run king.

Julia, 22-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ruth by a previous marriage, said she "felt better already" a moment after Babe's blood was injected into her arteries. She was operated on recently for cellulitis of the neck and while her condition was not serious, the white corpuscle count in her blood became low yesterday.

A telephone call went through to Ebbets field where Ruth was standing on the first-base line, shouting encouragement to the Dodgers in their game with Cincinnati. He answered the summons immediately.

"I never had one of these things before," Ruth told physicians as he stripped off his shirt and climbed on an operating table. The transfusion took 15 minutes and Ruth was more concerned about perspiration than he was about pain or loss of blood.

EIGHT CONTESTS SCHEDULED FOR RED AND BLACK

Urbana May be Held to Two Year Contract; W. Jefferson First

An eight-game football schedule with a possibility that one more contest may be added is facing Coach Roy Black and his Circleville high school grid machine this Fall. Coach Black has removed from Urbana to N. Court street and has been meeting his prospective gridders daily. No practice is permitted by state high school athletic law until August 20.

The Tiger season opens Sept. 16, the Friday after school starts, with West Jefferson as the opponent under the local lights. The following Friday finds Worthington coming here with Granville to visit the city the following week for one of the feature games of the season. A special event is being contemplated for the Granville game.

Portsmouth Central Catholic has been scheduled for the following week, Oct. 7, but school officials are not certain where the game will be played. Frankfort, on the Ross county school field, is the opponent on October 14. Oct. 21 is being left open because of Pumpkin Show week, football officials wishing to cooperate with merchants in keeping the crowds uptown as much as possible. However, if a good opportunity should present itself the Tigers may book a game out of town that week.

Greenfield Oct. 28

The Red and Black goes to Greenfield on Oct. 28 and tangles with Washington C. H. in the Fayette county seat on Nov. 4. The Nov. 12 date has been assigned to Grove City to be played there, but Coach Black would like to have the contest transferred to Circleville on Nov. 11 for a feature of Armistice Day.

According to the present schedule the season ends with the Armistice contest, but the Tiger mentor is planning to hold Urbana, the school he coached last year, to a contract calling for a game to be played in Circleville. If this can be done Circleville and Urbana will meet in a real ball game on Nov. 18 on the local field.

Many Veterans Back

Coach Black plans to call his squad together at the earliest possible date to determine with what he has to work this year. Co-captains Johnny Noggle and Gene Arledge will be ready for service; Bob Bowsher will be in there trying for the center post; Marv Jenkins and Frank Woodward, as sophomores, should be much better than they were as freshmen; Chuck Zaenglein and Bill Heffner will be trying to knock off the end positions left vacant by graduation of Dave Jackson and Bob Fickard; Dub Nelson, Art Rooney, Russ Liston and a gang of others will be out for line positions; Paul Walters or Snuffy Stebelton may get the signal-calling position, and there are many

WORK AND RELIEF

OHO'S new state relief director has decided that all relief clients hereafter must work for what they get. In Cleveland, 4,000 of the heads of families on relief are able to work.

The next step is to find the jobs. The city's assistant welfare director says that a number of men can be put to work at once cutting weeds, but hardly the whole 4,000. He adds that the city's own financial stringency would make it impossible to assign emergency relief clients to any other kind of work in the next few weeks.

There's the rub! It is not much easier for public authorities to find work for the jobless than for the jobless to find work for themselves. Relief jobs must not interfere with private business. In the days of C. W. A., set up to meet an emergency quickly, there was much complaint because men on relief did trivial work, cleaning sidewalks, raking leaves in cemeteries, and so on.

Everyone knows that a useful, constructive job is better than a make-shift job. Every self-respecting person wants to be employed at a task for which he is fitted and which is worth doing. There must be plenty of such jobs in the world, for there are so many needs, but somehow, at the present time, we seem to have lost the knack of getting the men and the opportunities together by normal methods.

ARTIFICIAL MOUNTAINEERING

THAT recent mountaineering feat in Switzerland, where the climbers went up the face of a sheer cliff more than a mile high, like flies on a wall, in imminent peril from fierce winds and snow-slides, was grand—a great sport in its most hazardous form. But that kind of sport is going to be simpler and safer from now on. King Leopold of Belgium, who is an inveterate mountain-climber as his father was, shows the way.

He is going to build his own mountain, with all the necessary hazards and scenery, and do his climbing at his summer home at Stupenberg, Belgium.

That will be much more convenient than going to the Alps every time the King feels like scaling a peak. Also safer. And there is doubtless state policy in that; his father was killed while climbing in the Belgian Ardennes.

These man-made cliffs and peaks will suffice to keep Leopold in good form. They will also give an idea to many a bold and active boy, the world over. Millions of fathers will now find their sons clamoring for mountains to climb in the back yard.

Thanks to the dictatorships, fear of world overpopulation lessens. Wars will take care of the surplus.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stearns

Of course every decent human being would be delighted to be convinced by recent London dispatches to the effect that efforts to rid the world of the chief threats against its peace really are gaining ground.

I do not discover, however, from chats with our managers of America's overseas relationships, with army and navy men and with such members of the foreign diplomatic corps as I happen to be confidentially acquainted with that these experts are much impressed by the latest optimistic forecasts from the British chancellery.

Naturally all hope for the best, but hopefulness is the most that many of them express; not confidence.

PACIFIST NOW, BUT—?

The present British government (or administration, as we would call it), to be sure, is adhering rather strictly to what is fairly describable as a pacifistic policy; a disposition to make plenty of concessions to more belligerent powers to avoid trends in the direction of international friction.

Nevertheless, British pacifistic sentiment is in a majority by a very NARROW majority. Indeed, the harder boiled element maintains that what it deems a wishy-washy attitude on John Bull's part is dangerous.

And the hard-boiled folk may gain control almost any time. If so, it may precipitate matters. Moreover, the pacifists themselves have just warned Japan to keep hands off British interests in the Orient or take the consequences. But it verged on one.

THREATS "EVERYWHERE"

With Japan and China already at war, Japan and Russia, as we know, are having actual warfare on the Manchukuoan-Siberian border. Even Britain has "warned" Japan recently.

True, the Japanese have their hands so full with China as probably to hesitate to take on Russia, too, let alone Britain. But, on the opposite side, Russia is a bit hesitant to tackle Japan lest it be jumped on from the rear by Germany. And Britain doubtless is hesitant to do much in the Orient lest it expose itself to attack in the Occident.

That is to say, threats of war in one spot are, to a certain extent, antidotes to threats of war somewhere else.

Yet it is war or threatened war everywhere.

STEEL FIRMS WAGE FIGHT

WASHINGTON — The most momentous industrial decision of the year is now at stake before the little-noticed Public Contracts Board of the Labor Department. It has just finished a hearing on which depends not only the earnings of several million workers, but perhaps the November elections.

Nominally, the Board will rule only on the prevailing wage scale for common labor in the steel industry. Actually, that is only one part of the picture. Behind the scenes is the dramatic life-and-death struggle between the great steel operators. In fact, this is the real root of the wage dispute. Here is the background of the crisis:

Between the years 1929-33 the so-called "Little Steel" corporations—Inland, Bethlehem, National, Republic, Otis—modernized plants with the continuous strip mill process and undersold U. S. Steel. For years under the late Judge Gary, U. S. Steel had dominated the industry, but now "Little Steel" wrested away large hunks of "Big Steel's" market.

When Myron Taylor, now U. S. envoy to the Refugee Conference, took command of U. S. Steel, however, he launched a vast program of modernization; so that when he retired last year the corporation had the most modern plants in the world, and had been decentralized to meet every conceivable competition from the independents.

With its plants strategically located in Birmingham, Chicago and Pittsburgh, "Big Steel" was ready to go after "Little Steel" and recapture its markets.

THE ATTACK

First move in this campaign was the price cut announced by U. S. Steel last spring.

This was a competitive attack in every sense of the word. Bethlehem, whose Eugene Grace is the real brains of "Little Steel", had indicated plans for a moderate price cut. U. S. Steel immediately answered the challenge.

It not only undercut Bethlehem's proposed cut but even more important, wiped out the long-standing regional price differentials under which steel, no matter where purchased, was always priced F. O. B. Pittsburgh.

This move was one of the most revolutionary in the history of the steel industry. What it meant was that by one stroke U. S. Steel, through its strategically located plants, once again dominated the markets of these key industrial areas.

No longer could the independents, bulwarked by the "Pittsburgh Plus" price system, compete freely with U. S. Steel in the South and West. Henceforth when they attempted to sell in these rapidly expanding manufacturing sections, they had to meet price competition plus freight costs—a practically insurmountable combination.

U. S. Steel had declared war—and with vengeance.

You might get the notion from the "pulp magazines" that civilization is being reduced to a pulp.

Japan now has to keep right on conquering China, and gosh, how she dreads it!

DIET AND HEALTH

Why Banana Is Good Foodstuff for Humans

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE BANANA bears fruit but once. When it is garnered, the tree is cut down.

Such want of her usual prodigality on the part of nature would seem to argue that the banana has special virtues. And this argument is upheld by the suffrage of mankind for five centuries or more, and by the considered verdict of modern dietetic science.

The original home of the banana probably was Asia. The Arabs, in the course of their traffic in slaves and ivory, moving across Africa, gradually carried it from tribe to tribe. Historically, it emerges into documentary recognition in 1482, when the Portuguese found it on the Guinea coast of the Atlantic.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest in this column.

To America, this fruit was brought by Father Tomas de Berlanga, in 1516. He planted a few banana roots on the island of Santo Domingo. Its introduction to the United States was probably as late as 1850.

But our grandfathers had no experience of this delicacy, because not until 1899 did the banana industry assume any proportions here.

Advantages as Food
As a food it has many advantages. It has more foodstuff and less water than any other fresh fruit. It contains 22 per cent starch or sugar and thus is high in energy requirement. It also contains considerable protein. Its vitamin content is good. It is also palatable, appetizing and highly digestible.

For these reasons and others, it has deservedly become popular as a form of reducing diet. Several years ago Dr. Harrop of Baltimore suggested the milk and banana diet.

for reducing. Milk and bananas make up a fairly balanced ration, containing together all the food elements and most of the vitamins and minerals. Besides, bananas are "filling" and satisfy hunger better than most foods.

When used as a continuous diet, one or two large bananas are used with a glass of milk for breakfast and lunch. For the evening meal, the diet may be modified by serving a clear soup, a slice of lean meat, one or two portions of a green vegetable, a slice of bread and butter and a portion of uncooked fruit.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

G. R.: "Please give the symptoms of lead poisoning, and some of the causes. Is it curable; if so, how? Can you prescribe a simple home treatment?"

Answer: The symptoms of lead poisoning are colic, tremor, constipation, lead line on the gums (consisting of a line of minute blue dots), paralysis and albumin in the urine. Causes are absorption from paint, water in lead pipes, and, in fact, any way in which food or drink may be contaminated with lead. Sometimes it is absorbed through the lungs—a strange epidemic due to using battery casings for fuel in domestic stoves having been reported. Treatment had best be given under the care of a physician. It consists first in mobilizing the lead in the bones with calcium, and then slowly deleading with some such drug as iodide of potash.

CHAPTER 31

NOEL WALKED slowly and thoughtfully home after leaving the restaurant. She had had such a happy day with Chris, had enjoyed every minute of it. But all the time she had been anticipating the late afternoon when she would go to the De Luxe and see Julian. She was so disappointed that he didn't come, the tears were very near the surface of her eyes. But she forced them back resolutely, and told herself that she was doing different kinds of a sap to let herself go on thinking about a man who apparently never gave her a thought.

She was so tired and depressed that she fell into bed about 9 o'clock, after doing a few of the things she always had to do in her spare time. Washing her face and handkerchiefs, and perhaps a blouse, so they would be ready to press in the morning. Straightening up the room, for now Noel didn't let Laurie do all their simple house-keeping. A number of times Laurie had come home to find everything in spotless order, and had complimented Noel on her work. Everything had to be in order with Laurie, or else she couldn't sit down and relax.

Once Noel told her that she was a "born old maid", but, of course, she was teasing. She knew the man who married Laurie would be very lucky indeed.

Sometimes Noel smilingly told herself that she was really learning, under Laurie's tutelage, to make quite a respectable wife for a poor man. She was actually able to do her linen blouses herself, ironing them without a wrinkle. And that, Noel thought, was an achievement. She remembered how difficult it had seemed when she had first tried.

The next morning Noel awakened feeling beautifully rested. She had a long night's sleep, the first time she had slept the clock around since she had gone to work at Luigi's.

Today was Saturday and Laurie had to be at work at 7. She was up as usual, moving around, getting dressed noiselessly when Noel opened her eyes.

Noel looked at her for a while in silence. There wasn't any doubt but that Laurie was entirely well now. There wasn't any danger whatever of a relapse. But there was a sad expression in her eyes. It was there often now. Noel knew it was because of Jimmy.

She said on a sudden impulse, "Aren't you and Jimmy acting very foolish not seeing each other just because—you can't get married yet?"

Laurie's look of pain came into her face just as it always did whenever Jimmy's name was mentioned. "No," she said in a low voice, "we're only trying to be sensible. The more we see of each other, the harder it is to—give each other up."

Laurie picked up her purse and began putting the things in it that she would need during the day—a small handkerchief, her comb, a small comb which she had washed and sterilized last night before going to bed.

"It's simply not fair that you and Jimmy should be separated like this," Noel said rather heatedly. There were times when she felt that Jimmy's mother must be about the most selfish woman in the world.

After a while she decided to stop thinking. Her thoughts just seemed to go around in circles. She never could come to any definite conclusions.

About 10 she managed a bath in the uninviting tub, dressed leisurely and a little past 11 found her on her way uptown to meet Chris for lunch at the little Spanish place where they had lunched yesterday.

He was waiting outside when she came up. "You're a few minutes late, loveless!" he said, taking her arm, "but I'll forgive you because you're looking so beautiful."

Laurie was ready to go now. She put her little red, roll-brim hat over her dark curls, and picked up her gloves and purse. Then she looked at Noel. "We—you and I—for some reason don't seem to be lucky in love, do we?"

"Not very lucky, no," Noel said in a low voice.

"That's why I'm going to—going to—"

But for some reason she couldn't finish. Her voice seemed to choke in her throat. Then she began again, "But you're lucky anyway, Noel, in having such a wonderful chance. Think of going to Hollywood. You'll probably have dozens of men in love with you when you get there."

Noel managed a little smile. The thought of having dozens of men in love with her, even if true, didn't excite her at all. "Would you like to have a dozen men in love with you?" she asked, just as Laurie was moving to the door.

Laurie shook her head. "No, only one—the real one."

She went out then, leaving Noel still busy with her thoughts. She supposed again, that her right senses would jump at the chance of going to Hollywood. But Noel knew she never acted logically about anything. She was swayed almost entirely by her emotions. And last night, when she had told Laurie that she was going to Hollywood, she really had not meant it at all. For she wasn't certain that she would go, if she had the chance.

Even if Ruth Chester did succeed in marrying Julian some day, which she probably would do from all indications, Noel knew her feelings toward Julian would not change.

"Why are women such idiots about love?" she demanded of the faded wallpaper. She and Laurie, both of them, eating their hearts out because they both loved a man they could not have. And probably both of them better off, if only they knew it. But Noel quickly dismissed that thought. No use trying to be cynical, she concluded. No woman could possibly be better off without the man she loved.

Then Noel's thoughts went back to Hollywood. How could she go off and leave Ruth Chester a clear field? Not that she believed the pretty nurse could influence Julian against his will. Nobody could accuse Julian of not knowing his own mind. But Ruth Chester was clever and crafty too, and quite, quite unscrupulous as Noel had cause to know. And Julian certainly did seem gullible where she was concerned. He might not be in love with her yet. There were times when Noel was almost able to convince herself that he wasn't, and times when she was almost certain he was.

After a while she decided to stop thinking. Her thoughts just seemed to go around in circles. She never could come to any definite conclusions.

Noel smiled. She wondered if a girl could really look beautiful in a $1.98 dress?

When they were seated and Chris had ordered, he said: "You think I say things like that to you because I'm a sort of flirt, don't you?"

"Sort of—" Noel teased. Then Chris said, his voice sounding husky. "Look at me, dear."

Noel raised her eyes questioningly to his. Then Chris put his hand across the table and closed it over hers. "You see, Noel, I'm really in love with you. Rather dreadfully so, I'm afraid."

Noel hadn't expected this. For a moment she couldn't answer. "You're such a dear," she began at last. "I'm fond of you, very fond of you, but Chris, dear, it—it isn't love."

"I'll wait," Chris said, settling back in his chair. "I won't give up hope. You see, I—I couldn't ask you to marry me now anyway, because I—well, I belong to the new poor, if you know what I mean. My father and I lost everything we had in the stock market crash. But I thought when we made good on this dancing act, we could be married then—maybe sort of secretly, if necessary. For, of course, in Hollywood you have to consider that sort of thing."

"Chris, I—I'm not sure I can go to Hollywood," Noel said unhappily.

"Not go to Hollywood? But Noel?" Chris was aghast. "You see, I—I—"

Chris was looking at her smilingly. "You've probably got an advanced case of stage fright," he said good-naturedly.

Noel knew that wasn't it. She also realized a little desperately that she had to make up her mind one way or the other. She couldn't go on in this state of indecision much longer. She had to decide whether she would go to Hollywood with Chris, or out to the Garwoods' to take the position as governess. They were expecting her on Monday. She ought to let them know before then if she did not intend to go.

When they finished lunch, Chris said, "What about a long drive in the country?"

Noel was able to smile. "You do think of the nicest things," she said, the thought coming to her that the fresh air would help her to decide what was best to do.

So they went out in the country and got ludicrously lost. For hours it seemed Chris drove the car around in a circle. At last they came across a funny little inn, had a nice country supper, and got back about 10 o'clock.

"Chris, it was fun," Noel said when they had each other good night.

"We always have fun together," Chris said in his blithe way. Noel went into the house, wondering why in the world she couldn't love Chris instead of Julian. Chris was such a darling, so good-natured, so gay and understanding. Any girl would be lucky to marry Chris.

Laurie was asleep, so Noel didn't even turn on the light. She undressed noiselessly and slipped into bed. And this was why she didn't see a note which lay on her pillow addressed in Julian's handwriting.

Soups for Summer Meals

A HEARTY one-meal soup and a salad often make a nice warm-weather luncheon or supper. Here are some grand recipes economical and good, using crackers, whole or crumbled, as ingredients.

A vegetable chowder is especially nice, and good for the youngsters, too. Six portions require one cup canned corn, one and one-half cups canned tomatoes, one teaspoon minced onion, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon celery salt, one and one-half cups each evaporated milk and hot water, 12 flake crackers, crumbled. Turn corn, tomatoes, onion, parsley, seasoning and hot water into a saucepan and boil gently for 10 minutes. Then add canned milk, and heat. Crumble crackers and stir into chowder. Serve with chopped parsley sprinkled over each portion.

Corn Chowder

Corn chowder is another tasty soup, nourishing and hearty. One can corn, four cups diced potatoes, two cups boiling water, two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon minced onion, four cups scalded milk, salt and pepper, and one cup oysterette crackers will yield six portions. Boil potatoes until tender but not soft. Cook onion in butter two minutes over low flame and add to potatoes. Then add corn and milk, and bring to boiling point. Season with salt and pepper and add crackers. Simmer gently for two minutes, then serve.

Everyone has a recipe for clam chowder. This is one of our favorites since it isn't at all involved or difficult. Ingredients include two cups boiling water, one and one-half cups oysterette crackers, two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon minced onion, teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one cup clam juice, one cup minced clams and two cups scalded milk.

Fish Chowder

Pour boiling water over the crackers. Heat butter in deep saucepan and brown onion in it. Add seasoning, crackers, clam juice and clams, and bring to a boil. Cook 10 minutes. Add hot milk, stir and serve. It makes six portions and takes only 12 minutes to prepare.

And here's a good recipe for fish chowder, a nice Friday dish. It requires one quart boiling water, one cup flaked, cooked fish, two tablespoons butter, one can condensed tomato soup, one onion (minced), two teaspoons salt, 17 flake crackers (crumbled), one large can evaporated milk and two tablespoons parsley, chopped. Into boiling water place fish, butter, soup, onion and salt. Boil gently for five minutes. Add crackers and boil gently for three minutes. Add evaporated milk and bring to boiling point. Serve at once sprinkled

Helpful Hints for Housewives

Paint stains on glass may be removed by rubbing them with a cloth dipped in hot vinegar.

Worm holes in furniture can be filled almost invisibly by this method: Crush some whitening and mix with linseed oil to a paste. Buy a little coloring matter of the right shade and mix in. Add a very little French polish just before filling the holes. Polish when quite hardened.

TODAY'S RECIPES

A MESSAGE FROM STEPHEN M. YOUNG

To my fellow Democrats:-

As Congressman-at-large I supported the Recovery Program of the New Deal in its entirety. I uphold the leadership of Franklin D. Roosevelt and believe that sound policies of the New Deal should be carried forward, strengthened and completed by its friends.

Minimum wage and shorter hour laws should be liberalized. Furthermore, we must provide steady employment, adequate low-cost housing, real farm relief, real social security and protection to the consuming public.

Congress must provide employment opportunities for youth between the ages of 18 and 25 and preserve the traditional American ideal of opportunity for youth.

Your support to renominate me as Congressman-at-large will be greatly appreciated.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

TWO FOR ONE CHEAP

THERE ARE times when it is cheap insurance to have your side up to two good cards on a trick. One of these comes when you overtake your partner's high lead in order to launch a defensive plan which is clearly visible to you but out of sight of him. Among such plans are those whereby you can set up a defensive ruff for yourself by leading a singleton back to him.

Both North and East passed on this deal and South started the bidding with 1-Spade, which West overcalled with 2-Diamonds. When North put in a bid of 2-Spades, South took the contract to 4-Spades.

The club K was West's opening attack and when the trick held he followed with two more rounds of the suit, the last of which South ruffed. The trump A was next knocked out and declarer was able to take the remainder of the tricks.

A little foresight by East could have set the contract. He held the trump A and was bound to get in early. He should have overtaken West's original lead with his A and laid down his singleton diamond. Then when the first spade was led, he could have gone in with the A and put West in the lead with a club. West would certainly have understood from East's play that a diamond return was in order.

PAUL DERRINGER WINS HIS 14TH GAME OF YEAR

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 6—(UP)—Paul Derringer, big right-handed pitching ace of the Cincinnati Reds, today jumped out in front of all other National league hurlers in the number of victories and advanced a step nearer duplicating his feat of 1935 when he topped the circuit's "won column" with 22 triumphs.

Derringer, in the midst of a brilliant comeback after a mediocre season a year ago when he won but 10 contests, hung up his 14th victory of the season here yesterday when the Reds turned back the Brooklyn Dodgers 4 to 1.

The Reds' mound ace gave up 11 hits, but kept them well scattered. The only run off him came in the fourth inning as a result of Dolph Camilli's circuit drive.

Cincinnati hopped out in front with one run in the first inning on a walk to Linus Frey and singles by Ival Goodman and Frank McCormick.

Forrest Presnell, in the box for the Dodgers, then held the Reds in submission until the eighth inning when they picked up two more counters.

An error by Mervyn Shea started the Cincinnati uprising in the eighth as Frey was safe when he dropped his third strike. The little second sacker went to second on a wild pitch and scored as Wally Berger singled. Berger romped home as McCormick smashed out a double.

The final counter was made in the ninth on Lew Rigg's double, a sacrifice and Derringer's long fly. The victory enabled Cincinnati to move back into a tie for third place with the idle Chicago Cubs. They now trail the pace-setting Pirates by 6 1/2 games.

ABERNATHY, VET FIELDER, HURT IN BALL GAME

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 6—(UP)—Thomas (Woody) Abernathy, outfielder of the Buffalo Bisons, who suffered a skull fracture in last night's doubleheader with the Syracuse Chiefs, was reported today after an emergency operation.

Dr. Brooks McCuen performed the operation in St. Joseph's hospital at 3:20 a. m. The x-ray showed a depressed fracture at the base of the skull.

Abernathy was hit by a wild pitch by John Gee, Syracuse hurler, in the third inning of the second game. He was carried from the field on a stretcher. His condition was so grave that his wife was summoned from Buffalo.

Abernathy, a veteran of 10 years in organized baseball, has hit 21 homers for the Bisons since he was purchased from the Baltimore Orioles last fall. He is a native of Birmingham, Ala.

POISON ARROWS ARE DEFENDED FOR BUSHMEN

CAPETOWN, —(UP)— Unless they are allowed to use poison arrows to shoot game, Africa's Stone Age men, the bushmen of the Kalahari desert, will die out from starvation.

This is the contention of the Bushmen Preservation Committee, on which the British government, the South African government, the Southwest Africa administration and the University of South Africa are represented. The committee was formed as a result of the interest created when a group of "little brown people" came to Capetown last year to pay homage at the Coronation.

The trouble is that there is an international convention for the preservation of Africa's fauna and flora, one clause of which forbids the use of poison for hunting.

"If they are to be stopped from using poisoned arrows, then they must be provided with firearms if they are not to die of starvation. And to give them firearms would be extremely inadvisable," Senator Boydell, a member of the committee, declared.

Boydell contends that the bushmen could not possibly use enough poison to make any real difference to the fauna of Africa, and hopes that the committee may be able to obtain a special reserve for them, where they can live as they have for 16,000 years.

The feature of the show, arranged by Tut Jackson and Red Bellar, lists Tom Brown of Cincinnati against Frank Lockwood of Terre Haute at 134 pounds in an eight round go. The semi-final will find Herb Gilmore, 122, of Cincinnati, going against Pat Patterson, 124, of Louisville.

The Helfrich park is big enough to seat 2,000 fans.

Light Project Meetings Fairly Well Attended

Series of community meetings throughout the western part of Pickaway county in the interest of developing a rural electrification project are being fairly well attended, officials of the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative said Saturday.

Purpose of the meetings is to obtain rights of way and memberships for preparation of a project to be sent to the Rural Electrification Administration for an allocation for line construction. Attendance at the meetings, officials explained, has been reduced due to residents of many of the communities taking memberships and filling rights-of-way at the general meeting held recently in Williamsport.

The project, to include eight townships in the western section of the county, has the approval of R. E. A. providing three customers per mile and all necessary rights-of-way are obtained. The series of community meetings will close Monday with meetings at 8 p. m. in the Scioto and Darby schools.

Line construction under the recent allocation of $233,000 for Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties, is scheduled to start in Fairfield county on Aug. 15, Marvin in Steeley, Washington township, official of the cooperative, announced. Some work will be completed in Fairfield county, then a crew will start in Pickaway county, Mr. Steely said. The Anderson Asphalt Paving Co., Hamilton, is contractor. Approximately 80 miles of lines will be erected in the eastern portion of Pickaway county.

VEGETABLE AND FRUIT GRADING PLANS FORMED

Ohio Agricultural Department To Increase Usual Staff Of 16 to 60 Men

BETTER PRICE CITED

Marketing Simplified Under Program, Hanefield Declares

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6—Plans for inspection and grading of fruits and vegetables produced on Ohio farms and orchards are being completed by Earl H. Hanefield, state director of agriculture. The normal staff of 16 men assigned to grade produce in accordance with U. S. Government specifications will be increased to more than sixty as the harvest season approaches. The state department works in cooperation with the Federal government.

Although producers are not required by law to have fruits and vegetables graded, Director Hanefield explained that an ever increasing number are taking advantage of this service of the department because of better prices paid for the sorted food stuffs. The standardization or misbranding law which is enforced by the department makes it compulsory that all produce marketed or transported in the state be marked with the proper grade and the packers or growers name and address on the container.

The rapid growth of standardization and grading among Ohio farmers has come about as a result of a campaign waged by the department in which it was shown that prices paid for graded produce far exceeded those paid for run-of-the-patch produce. Marketing is also simplified because a buyer in Cleveland or New York may order a particular grade of fruit or vegetable from an Ohio producer and know that his purchase will be as ordered.

would have been retained by the city if a modern jail was available.

The mayor explained that when prisoners are sent to the county jail after failure to pay fines, and they later settle their accounts, the money goes to the county. "If we have an approved jail that money would go to the city," the mayor said.

During the last seven months Mayor Cady has collected a total of $2,407.60 in fines, costs and bonds. Most of the fines were collected on traffic cases.

Circleville voters will ballot next Tuesday on a $12,000 bond issue for a proposed addition to the city building to include a modern jail, garage and health department. The present jail in the basement of the city building has been condemned for many years.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

Joan Blondell and Melvyn Douglas have been joined together in matrimony and launched on their funnymoon in Columbia's new romantic comedy, "There's Always a Woman," which opens for a three day run at the Cliftona Theatre starting Sunday.

Based on Wilson Collison's popular magazine story, "There's Always a Woman" probes hilariously into the private lives of Mel and Joan, a couple of wide-eyed sleuths with a penchant for getting into all kinds of trouble. Mel, it seems is a detective—and so is Joan, of the private agency variety. When Mel is assigned to a murder in which Joan is representing the accused—the fun, already well started, really goes to town.

In the supporting cast are Mary Astor, Frances Drake, Robert Paige, Jerome Cowan and Thurston Hall. Gladys Lehman wrote the screen play, which Alexander Hall directed.

The society will sponsor a nation-wide campaign next Spring. The district includes Franklin, Delaware, Ross, Morrow, Knox, Union, Madison and Pickaway counties.

The Kiwanis club will have its regular meeting Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Pickaway Country club. Another softball game will be played, the members getting in some practice for their game to be arranged soon with the Rotary club.

The picnic planned by the Gleaners' class of the Pontius United Brethren church for Tuesday evening at Rising Park, Lancaster, has been postponed one week.

The war in Spain remained relatively unchanged but there were indications that the Loyalists, stubbornly resisting the Nationalist drive on the East coast, planned a drive of their own on the upper Catalan front. The drive would be the third of its kind, designed to make Generalissimo Francisco Franco scatter his forces and weaken his drive against Sagunto and Valencia in the South.

Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador to Germany, presumably was making a close study of the war dangers inherent in the Czechoslovakia minorities dispute.

Wilson Meets President
Wilson insisted that his visit to Czechoslovakia is non-political. However, he had an engagement to confer with President Edouard Benes and Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta.

Accompanied by Wilbur Carr, United States minister to Czechoslovakia, he had luncheon today with Viscount Runciman, the British emissary sent to "observe" the dispute and possibly act as mediator.

WOMAN BRUISED AS CAR STRIKES PARKED TRUCK

Mrs. Raymond Boystel, 165 Marks street, Lancaster, was treated in Berger hospital about 1 a. m. Saturday for bruises that she received when an auto in which she was riding struck a parked truck in S. Court street.

Police said the auto was being driven by Vinton B. LaNier, Kingston. The car struck the rear of the truck of Walter Nelson, 718 S. Court street, parked in front of his home.

Mrs. Boystel was treated by Dr. E. L. Montgomery. Mr. Boystel and Mr. and Mrs. LaNier escaped injury.

STATE BALLOTS WITH NEW DEAL ISSUE AT STAKE

Barkley Running Against Happy Chandler With F. D.'s Blessing

pained tirelessly back and forth through the state's 120 counties, hurling ridicule at each other. They concluded their campaigns last night. Barkley spoke on the lawn of the courthouse in his home town Paducah. He has opened and closed every one of his campaigns there during 26 years in politics. He urged his hearers to "silence the governor's wise-cracks and dash the faint hopes of New Deal haters that the state would turn from the President."

"Defeat stares Chandler in the face and he is frantic and sick," he said. "In another day he can cease having his picture taken."

Votes in Paducah
He voted in Paducah early today and remained there for the day to receive returns.

Chandler spoke at Versailles and Lexington. He reviewed his record as governor, boasted of his success in reducing the state debt two-thirds, and claimed the full support of the laboring classes. Although denied presidential support, he has not ignored the White House.

"Mr. Roosevelt," he said, "must have told Senator Barkley to 'get off my coat tails and run by yourself for a while.'"

"When I go up to Washington I'll be with you and the President, but if the President is against you I'll still be with you, and if he's for you I'll be for both of you."

Both sides claimed victory. Barkley backers said he would win by a 50,000 plurality at least. Chandler supporters believed he would win by a 30,000 plurality. There were 11 other candidates for the nomination, but they all agreed they had no chance.

Barkley on Record

Barkley, who the President has often referred to as "Dear Alben," based his campaign on his record of New Deal loyalty. He pointed, too, to the $280,000,000 in federal grants which Kentucky has received during his last term of office.

Besides his New Deal backing, Barkley had the support of the powerful Louisville Democratic organization, ruled by Mrs. Lennie McLaughlin, Mike Brennan and Shackelford Miller, the latter one of Barkley's campaign managers. Chandler depended on his state organization which, during his term as governor, he had strengthened in all sections of the state, except Louisville. He was a New Dealer in his own right until he chose to oppose Barkley.

CORRIGAN

through the tumultuous celebration in his honor until midnight.

It happened during yesterday's parade on Broadway where a million persons stood to cheer the hero of a flight to Dublin in a $900 plane, and the street almost sprouted shamrocks in the demonstration of Irish enthusiasm.

Corrigan didn't know who jostled him. In fact he said nothing of it until he was in his hotel in the evening. Dr. Willard Ellsworth strapped him and recommended the x-ray.

It remained for Mayor F. H. LaGuardia eventually to trap Corrigan in his "wrong way" abill. He said that since Corrigan "flew above the clouds" when he crossed the Atlantic ocean "headed for Los Angeles," he must have seen the sun and it should have seemed strange to him that the sun "rose in the West."

Corrigan blinked and grinned, and evaded the point.

The mayor, speaking at an Advertising club luncheon after the parade, hailed Corrigan nevertheless as typifying "the daring, courage and imagination of American youth."

Some people always seem to know just what to say and do in any situation and some folks don't ever seem to be able to get the knack. I suppose it's that born knack that makes salesmen and diplomats. That's why I admire my Uncle Skinny Flint. He always knows the right answer.

He rented a house to a fella on time and a few days later his tenant came to him and says "Skinny, that place is the draughtiest place I've ever lived in. When I sit in the dining room, my hair blows down all over my face. Can't you do something about it?"

Quick as a flash, Uncle Skinny said "Well, I'll tell you, brother—I ain't no barber. But I'll take a shot at cuttin' your hair."

ions are that the total county vote will be from 3,500 to 4,000 Democratic ballots and 1,000 to 1,500 Republican. In 1936 the vote for governor was 3,581 Democratic and 1,562 Republican, and in 1934, 4,259 Democratic and 1,792 Republican.

Greatest interest in the county centers on the Davey-Sawyer race for the Democratic nomination for governor. Both candidates have visited Circleville during their campaigns.

There are only two contests on the county ticket, both on the Democratic side. One creating considerable interest is the race for commissioner with four candidates in the field. They are W. M. Beavers, Scioto township; Wayne F. Brown, Madison township; George T. Eitel, Circleville township, and Earl L. Hoffman, Washington township. The successful candidate will oppose C. E. Wright, Republican, Harrison township, seeking reelection.

Forrest Short, Circleville, is seeking the nomination on the Republican ticket for reelection as county auditor. O. M. Beckett, Commercial Point, is the only Democratic candidate for the position.

The race for representative to the general assembly holds considerable interest. Clark K. Hunsicker, Circleville, is seeking reelection. He is opposed by William I. Spangler, Tarlton. Both are Democrats. William Radcliff, mayor of Williamsport, will be the Republican nomination.

Five For Congress

Both parties have contests in the race for representative to Congress. H. K. Claypool, Chillicothe, seeks reelection on the Democratic ticket with opposition from Robert L. Immett, Yellowbud, and James M. Lantz, Lancaster. Republican candidates are Tom White, Fairfield county, and Creed Silbaugh, Chillicothe.

Pickaway county voters will ballot on six bond issues Tuesday. Three are in Circleville. The Circleville issues amount to $31,000. Included are $10,000 for an addition to Berger hospital, $9,000 for a boulevard lighting system on Court and Main streets, and $12,000 for an addition to the city building, all under P. W. A.

Issues in the county are all for school additions under P. W. A. They are Monroe township, $30,000; Perry township, $35,750, and Madison, $5,000.

The name of Meeker Terwilliger, recently appointed Judge of Common Pleas court by Gov. Davey to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Joseph W. Adkins, must be written on the ballot. The appointment was too late to have the name printed on the ballot.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

Circleville, Ohio August 6, 1938

To the Editor of The Circleville Herald

On Tuesday, Aug. 9, at the primary election you will have the opportunity to vote on a bond issue of $9,000. This amount will be this city's part of the cost for boulevard lights on Court and Main streets. The U. S. Government will furnish more than $6,000 in addition. More than 95 percent of the cities and many of the larger towns in Ohio have beautiful boulevard lighting, neat iron or steel poles and underground wiring. Circleville can secure the latest up-to-date system because great improvements have been made in the last few years. The cost is no more than others paid for their boulevard light system several years ago, which styles are now out of date. Latest type of steel or iron standards are a thing of beauty. Boulevard street lighting is the index by which public opinion gauges the progressive city. Light for safety and ease of driving is important of course but also important is light on building fronts, signs, walks—every place that will add to the cheerfulness of the business and shopping district. Lighting brings a sense of security to the citizens. Women, in particular, are grateful for the greater security of well lighted streets.

The $9,000 bonds are to be repaid within 10 years at a rate of $1,000 each year. The city will therefore own its own boulevard system and purchase the electricity on a meter or contract on a per light basis. You may never have the opportunity to secure a neat steel or iron pole, underground wiring boulevard system at as low cost as now, because the U. S. Government now is willing to furnish 45 percent (about $6,750) of the cost of the $15,000.

We all want boulevard lights because they beautify our streets both day time and night. Each light is on duty throughout the night preventing crime, a saver of life and a protector of property. Light is a magnet that draws people into the shopping districts. It enhances property values. We pay for good lighting whether we get it or not. With inadequate lighting, we pay in accidents, crime and death. Let us all vote in favor of Boulevard Lighting, Tuesday August 9th.

Meeker Terwilliger FOR JUDGE OF THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS

On the Democratic Primary ballot, this office will be found in the third or right hand column of the ballot, and should not be confused with Judge of the Court of Appeals in the second or middle column of the Primary ballot.

Look for "Judge of the Court of Common Pleas" in the third or right hand column of the Primary Ballot, and in the blank space there, WRITE IN the name of Meeker Terwilliger and place a cross mark "X" to the left of his name, then you will have voted to nominate him for that office.

Primary Election Tuesday August 9, 1938. Thank you.

FORMER STATE GOVERNOR SAYS TEST IS FACED

democratic form of government will be vindicated.

I have had no differences with the governor, personal, political or otherwise. I harbor no feeling of bitterness and cannot but have pity for any public officer who does not regard his oath of office as sacredly as a pledge to his God. Of all earthly joys few are comparable to that which comes from the consciousness of service in the governor's office, without even a whisper of trespass on the honor of the commonwealth.

As a young man, the administrations of Campbell and Harmon developed in me a reverence for the high office of governor, and so long as I live my voice will be raised in protest against anyone who lets it sink to the level of corrupt gutter politics.

May I call the attention of Democratic voters to the easy possibility of their contributing to our party's defeat in 1940. It was a thoughtless error in one state which lost the presidency to the Republicans in 1916. The first bulwark of party organization is in the communities where confidence is usually inspired by clean service in our courthouses. If we fail at the primary, the electorate will attend to the job in November and defeat will run in part or whole to the bottom of the ticket. We would face the campaign two years from now disorganized, if not discredited.

I will cast my ballot with pride for Charles Sawyer. I have been impressed by the solid qualities of his mind and the ruggedness of his character. He will make a governor creditable to our party and to the state. In a very unpleasant campaign he has conducted himself with rare self composure and has borne himself as a gentleman. In my judgment he supplies the corrective to existing conditions in the state house. He would restore the office to the honor given it by our fathers.

Sincerely,
JAMES M. COX.

Lantz Replies

Let's have FACTS — and not POLITICAL HOOEY which has been published by an ALARMED CONGRESSMAN.

The FRIGHT of my opponent over the surge of favor for my candidacy, is indicated by the BEFUDDLED nature of his advertisements. They contain predictions no CONFIDENT candidate would make. Below, you will find the FACTS ABOUT THIS CONGRESSIONAL RACE AND THE FLIMSY CLAIMS OF MY OPPONENT.

(My opponent says)—He'll carry every county 2 to 1. That is SILLY on the face of it. Fairfield county with 6000 Democratic voters will go to Lantz 5-1. Ross county with two candidates will split the votes three ways. LANTZ, will receive substantial majorities in Perry and Hocking counties with a heavy vote assured in Pickaway.

(He says)—"He has a RIGHT to a second term". WHO GAVE HIM THAT RIGHT? A MENTAL STATE of this nature is common at this time of the year with incumbent office holders. If it is BASED UPON A RECORD OF OUTSTANDING SERVICE—NO ONE IS OFFENDED, but if it is only the cry of a fellow afraid he will lose his job it's a confession of weakness. My opponent's own county organization has not GIVEN ITS ENDORSEMENT FOR A SECOND TERM.

(He says) "He has greatly strengthened his position by his conduct in office" If shaking down postmasters and Federal employees for CAMPAIGN FUNDS . . . CONTINUED NEGLECT OF CORRESPONDENCE FROM CONSTITUENTS . . . HIGH HATTING OF VOTERS . . . ARROGANT BELIEF IN THE INFALLIBILITY OF THE CLAYPOOL DYNASTY IN ROSS COUNTY . . . CONVENIENT ABSENCE FROM THE FLOOR OF THE HOUSE AT ROLL CALL ON ESSENTIAL LEGISLATION MAKES FOR STRENGTH IN A CONGRESSMAN WE DON'T KNOW THE RULES.

(He says) "Lantz is making another bid for the nomination" Why shouldn't I? The 11th Congressional District has not been represented by a CITIZEN OF Fairfield County in 65 years. THE DISTRICT HAS NOT HAD THE TYPE OF REPRESENTATION IN CONGRESS DURING THE LAST TWO YEARS TO WHICH IT IS ENTITLED. And now with my opponent, member of a FAMILY GROWN RICH IN PUBLIC OFFICE; with one member a utility lawyer-lobbyist and member of the Ross county board of elections; another as U. S. Commissioner; another feeding heavily on state Highway gravy, and still another in the Department of Agriculture not to mention the terms my opponent's father had as Congressman . . . why wouldn't I run again, to free the 11th Congressional District from the fetters of the Claypool dynasty.

Just why does my opponent seek a second term? Certainly there is no indication of the reason in his first term. The records show none of his activity.

My opponent points with pride to the millions of dollars of federal money that he contends he diverted into the district. Federal records show that districts represented in congress by Republican representatives got at least as much money as we did. The distribution of funds to the district was the automatic result of the Federal administration's plan to help all the United States. It is a known fact that in some instances appropriations were allotted to our district long before my opponent was even aware that they were to be made.

So, my opponent need not be sent back to the congress to assure this district of obtaining its just share of federal help. Could it be that Claypool seeks return to his seat in Washington to provide an open door for the great utility interests represented by his family? Is he seeking return in order to represent the district—which he did not do in his last term—or to represent the Claypool family?

(He Says) "I have gone along with the administration" The record does not show it. THE only endorsements by any Democratic leaders he has produced are from Texas and Alabama. My opponent's vote against the Gilbertville Dam project was a slap at RURAL ELECTRIFICATION . . . his vote against the RE-ORGANIZATION BILL WAS A DIRECT SLAP AT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT—

Your vote on August 9th is solicited. I pledge an honest, INTELLIGENT service for ALL THE PEOPLE OF THIS DISTRICT and NOT A FAVORED FEW.
